

This illustration depicts the construction method that would be used to install soil nails for the East Cliff Drive project. Much of the drill work would be done from the edge of the blufftop. Additionally, in the final stages of construction, workers suspended from the blufftop would apply the shotcrete layers.

Soil Nail Construction Method

Santa Cruz, California